If you're STRESSED out about the holidays, imagine how your pet feels? Help your pet have a happy holiday too!

Common Stressful Triggers:

Ringing doorbells People dressed in costumes Animated decorations and Halloween sounds Dressing up your pets in costumes and accessories

How To Help Your Pet Cope

Consider giving them a safe space in a bedroom. This will also prevent your pet from bolting out the door and getting lost.

Play music, either classical or pet specific calming music.

Not all pets like dressing up – don't force it if your pet seems uncomfortable.

Put a note to knock on the door vs ringing the doorbell.

Plug-in a FELIWAY[®] CLASSIC diffuser or put on an ADAPTIL[®] Calm collar to help your cat and dog feel more comfortable during a stressful situation.¹

but is everyone is happy?

Common Stressful Triggers:

Lots of family and friends, especially unfamiliar people

Rearranging furniture to accommodate tables and guests

Lots of noise, either from ringing doorbells, lively family discussions or watching TV

Other dogs and cats coming over with their family

How To Help Your Pet Cope

Give them a place where they can take a break - a bedroom where you put extra blankets and toys.

Rearrange furniture a couple days in advance to allow your pet to get used to the change.

Let guests know in advance that the door will be unlocked and to come in without knocking or ringing the doorbell.

Using FELIWAY[®] CLASSIC and ADAPTIL[®] Calm can help your pets feel more comfortable in stressful situations. If you have other pets coming over, using FELIWAY[®] MultiCat and ADAPTIL[®] Calm can help cats and dogs get along better!²

 Data on file.
Prior MR and Mills DS (2020) Cats vs. Dogs: The Efficacy of FELIWAY® Friends and ADAPTIL® Products in Multispecies Homes. Front. Vet. Sci. 7:399.

©2020 Ceva Animal Health, LLC

If you're STRESSED out about the holidays, imagine how your pet feels? Help your pet have a happy holiday too!

Common Stressful Triggers:

Decorations and shiny objects can be attractive to play with and eat

Car rides to visit relatives or boarding if they can't come

Guests that may stay for an extended visit

How To Help Your Pet Cope

Put decorations out of reach of pets.

Take several smaller trips with your pet to help them get used to car rides. Spraying the area in the car with FELIWAY[®] CLASSIC spray or ADAPTIL[®] Travel spray will help your pet feel more relaxed.^{3,4}

Consider a pet sitter and let your pet stay at home while you travel.

Have your guests give tasty treats to your pets to help their interactions be positive and rewarding.

 Gaultier E, Pageat P, Tessier Y Proc 32nd Cong of the Intl Soc for Applied Ethology, Clermont-Ferrand, France, 1998; 198
Gaultier E, Pageat P. Proc of the 4th Intl Behaviour Mtg, Caloundra, Australia, 2003; 33-35.

Common Stressful Triggers:

Loud music Fireworks

How To Help Your Pet Cope

Provide a safe space, a bedroom or quiet area of the house with extra blankets and toys.

Close the curtains. This will block out the flashes of light from fireworks.

Play music, either classical or pet specific calming music.

Use FELIWAY[®] CLASSSIC or ADAPTIL[®] Calm to help your pet cope with stressful situations.¹

FELIWAY[®] CLASSIC and MultiCat diffusers should be placed in the room where your pet spends the most time. It takes approximately 24 hours for the pheromone to fill the room.

ADAPTIL[®] Calm on-the-go collars are activated by body heat. You should place them to fit snuggly around your dog's neck. Take off prior to bathing.

These helpful tips are brought to you by:

FFI IWAY

