All animals scratch but when they scratch frequently it's a problem.

We've designed an online tool to help you keep track of your pet's scratching so you and your veterinarian can determine if your pet's treatment plan for dermatological issues is working.

3 Simple Steps

1. Tell us about your pet's treatment plan.
2. Track the scratch. You'll receive weekly reminders to measure how itchy your pet is. You can also set up reminders to administer medications and topical therapies.
3. The Itchmeter will then create a report for you to share (email or print) with your veterinarian to help manage or modify the treatment plan.

You know how important history is for animals with dermatological issues.

We've created an online tool that is an easy way for your clients to monitor their pet's scratching and record it to help identify the triggers causing the itch and how well the treatment plan is working.

3 Simple Steps

1. Tell us about the pet's treatment plan.
2. Track the scratch. Pet owners can set up weekly reminders to measure how itchy the pet is. Reminders to administer medications and topical therapies can also be created.
3. The Itchmeter will then create a report for you to monitor compliance and progress so you can evaluate how well the treatment plan is working.
